GUIDE TO FILLING IN THE QUESTIONNAIRE

1. Instructions for the interviewer

The questionnaire includes several instructions for the interviewer that should not be read out loud to the respondent. These are there to assist your work.

THESE INSTRUCTIONS ARE ALWAYS IN LARGE, ITALIC, GREY LETTERS, APPEARING IN A FRAME.

2. Possible answers 'below the line'

With most questions, the questionnaire includes additional possible answers (in grey), separated by a line below the possible answers that are to be read out loud (in black). These additional possible answers should not be read out loud during the interview, but they may be marked if necessary. A special type of answers 'below the line' are those set in a table. In this case, the column is also marked grey, and has a distinct border.

An example of possible answers below the line in case of a simple question: Question B02

An example of possible answers below the line in case of a table: Question B04

3. Handling 'does not know' and 'does not wish to answer' responses.

The 'does not know' and 'does not wish to answer' responses are handled in two ways:

a) In most questions, they appear in grey as possible answers 'under the line'. (See Point 2)
(Example: Question B02)

b) In some questions, where the 'does not know' answer could be more frequent or understandable, we put it among the possible answers to be read out loud. In these cases, it appears above the line, in black. (Example: Question D02d)

4. Handling 'does not apply' answers

The questionnaire includes several 'don't apply' possible answers 'under the line'. You can mark it if the given question is not applicable to the pregnant woman. For example, this could be marked at a question about work when the pregnant woman does not have a job, or at a question about her partner if she does not have a partner. (Example: Question B04)

5. Skipping in the questionnaire

The questionnaire includes several questions that should not be asked of each and every respondent. Essentially, there are two types of skipping in the questionnaire:

a) Small skipping (of a few questions)

In these cases, a single answer to a question could render the following few questions irrelevant, and the questionnaire should be resumed at a later question. Here, next to the possible answers, you can see where to continue if that answer is marked.
(Example: Question B02)

b) Skipping larger sections, depending on the life situation of the respondent

There are groups of questions or entire sections that should be asked or skipped, depending on the life situation of the respondent. These include questions about the respondent's children. In these cases, the instructions for the interviewer (see Point 1) indicate where you should resume the questionnaire, depending on the given life situation. (Example: Instruction at the bottom of page 5 "IF THE RESPONDENT DOES NOT HAVE A LIVE BIOLOGICAL CHILD (A02=0), THEN CONTINUE HERE: QUESTION C02 (PAGE 9)"

First of all, thank you for participating! As I have already mentioned, today’s interview will last for about 60 minutes. DATA TAKEN FROM THE PRENATAL CARE

BOOKLET

GUIDE TO FILLING IN THE QUESTIONNAIRE

In the next few pages, some important data from the prenatal care booklet should be recorded, but the pregnant woman's direct cooperation is not needed for this: she can just hand you the booklet.

There are several ways to record the data:

1. While the woman is filling in the self-administered questionnaire, you can record the data directly online.
2. While the woman is filling in the self-administered questionnaire, you can copy the appropriate data to the paper questionnaire and record it online later.
3. If the woman needs help in filling in the self-administered questionnaire, you will only be able to record the data from the prenatal care booklet right at the end, either electronically or on paper.

If the prenatal care booklet is incomplete, ask the woman for the necessary information. If she cannot answer, leave those fields blank.
